

Hello to all of you out there. I thought I would do something a little different for the next few months. I get a monthly catalog from Fire Mountain. This last month was all about color. There was a lot of information, none of which I knew. I thought it would be fun to share. There is too much information to cram it all into one newsletter so I thought I would divide it up over the next four months. I am going to copy all of the information just as it appears in the catalog. Of course they were pushing sales of a color wheel as well as Swarovski crystals. So hold on here goes...

Color is a powerful force in our lives. Color affects our bodies and minds. Our psychological response to color is defined by a number of factors including cultural and personal, as well as the nature of color itself.

Certain colors are said to be healing for the mind and body.

- Red was thought to bring warmth and activate the body and mind.
- Yellow, the color of the sun and representing the life force, was used to stimulate the nerves.
- Blue was considered to purify

Each of us has our own unique response to different colors.

As a jewelry artist, color is one of the most significant design tools you have. I have left out a little bit of Fire Mountain's discussion, but you get the drift.

UNDERSTANDING THE COLOR WHEEL.

According to Fire Mountain (and likely your own experience), knowledge about color theory and the color wheel are important to consider when making color choices as a designer.

- A. The color wheel starts with the three primary colors equidistant from each other: yellow, red and blue.
- B. Mixing two primaries produces a secondary color: orange, violet or green.
- C. Mixing a primary with a nearby secondary yields a tertiary color: yellow orange, red orange, red violet, blue violet, blue green and yellow green.

Fire Mountain explains that there are 5 basic color themes.

- Monochromatic color scheme
- Analogous color scheme
- Complementary color scheme

- Split-Complementary color scheme
- Triadic color scheme

Okay now that I've overwhelmed you with information, I'll let you rest and get back to you next month.

We will have a stash sale on Monday 9-21-20, the same day as our Third Quarter General Meeting in Sagebrush, assuming the floor work in Sagebrush is complete and the room is open.

It will start at 9:30 am and run until 11:30. The general meeting will begin at noon, both in person and on Zoom. After the general meeting is over, the stash sale can resume. You can get 1 or 2 cardtables, leaving the room configuration as is, with six feet between each 3-foot cardtable. Put a sign with your name on each of your tables. One person at a time at your table(s) to buy. Until the general meeting is over, the maximum number of tables devoted to the Stash Sale will be 12. The maximum Rec-Center- approved occupancy of Sagebrush is 26 people. A Beader attending the general meeting will likely need to sit at your extra table during the meeting. After the general meeting is over, some people may want to stay and bead, and some people may want to leave. If enough people leave, you may be able to expand to 3 tables. If this appeals to you and you are interested in getting a table(s) please let me know ASAP. I will reserve them for you. Make prices in increments of $.25, that way you only need quarters for change. You will conduct your own sales and supply your own change.

Buyers, you can bring small bills and a checkbook, if needed. Each seller is independent and needs to be paid as such. One customer at a time at the table, and move around the room, keeping your six foot distance. Of course masks are required. Face shields are not sufficient.
